

Donor Privacy Policy

The San Diego River Park Foundation is committed to respecting the privacy of donors, including any personally identifiable information.

The San Diego River Park Foundation does not trade, rent, or sell a donor's personal information with anyone else.

The San Diego River Park Foundation may use third-party vendors to process credit and bank card donations, maintain records, and inform donors on the organization's plans and activities through items such as invitations, newsletters, and other publications both print and electronic. Any donor information provided to these third-party vendors is done on a strictly confidential basis.

If the donor has any questions about this policy or if the donor wishes to be removed from The San Diego River Park Foundation's lists and databases, please email the following address:
